(Narrator): Listen to a passage about the history of blue jeans. You will answer questions 2 through 6 based on this passage.

(Pause 2 seconds.)

(Narrator):

Many years ago in America, two men invented a special pair of pants. One of the men used little pieces of metal to hold cloth together to form the pants. He shared his idea with a man who sold cloth. They worked together and made special pants for people who worked outdoors. These new pants were tough as nails. They could be washed many times. Cowboys and men who worked cutting down trees wore these strong new pants. Later, more people started to wear them. Now, people all over the world work and play in what we call blue jeans.

(Pause 2 seconds.)

(Narrator): Now answer the following questions.
